Free English Language Learning Resources on the Internet

A guide for English learners, English teachers, and prospective volunteers

Contrary to popular belief, English language learning does not have to be limited to classroom hours. It does not have to be costly. There are many locations on the Internet where English learners and English teachers can find materials 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. These sites feature lessons, worksheets, quizzes and interactive exercises regarding every component of the English language, including vocabulary, grammar, listening, speaking, reading and writing.

We hope the resources listed here are helpful to anyone who is looking to improve his/her life or the life of others through English.
